Abandoned truck scales may turn into substation

BY ED LEPOMA

County officials have saved the abandoned weigh station on Hwy. 90 outside Pearlinton from the bulldozer and hope to turn the cinder-block building into a long-needed Sheriff's Department substation.

Actual details will be revealed to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors at their regular monthly meeting Monday, but some details have already emerged.

The Echo has learned it was District 1 Supervisor Jeep Ladner who found out the Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) planned to level the property. Ladner called State Rep. J.P. Compretta and Sheriff Ronnie Peterson together to discuss possible uses for the building.

Compretta called MDOT's Southern District Commissioner Ronnie Shows and convinced him that the building could be put to good use by the county.

Shows gave his blessing and is supposed to be among officials here making the pitch to supervisors on Monday.

Citizens of Pearlinton, faced with a growing drug problem, have complained for years that teen-aged gangs and others often cross the Louisiana state line and come over to Pearlinton to peddle their wares.

Just last March, Hancock County's Narcotics Task Force teamed with U.S. Drug Enforcement agents from Mobile and New Orleans and the Bay and Waveland police departments and arrested a total of 31 on charges ranging from distribution to possession of drugs.

The undercover operation was ongoing for several months and was underway

Bay P&Z approves variances, neighbors object to decision

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Owners of two small lots on Beach Boulevard convinced Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission on Wednesday to allow them a little more elbow room for buildings.

The commission recommended in favor of variances for both applicants, despite pleas from future neighbors that the variances be rejected.

In both cases, legal action was threatened by opponents. The matters will be on City Council's agenda for final action Tuesday. City Council members who represent the areas at issue were on hand to observe the debate.

The smaller of the two lots discussed Wednesday is at 4010 North Beach Boulevard. Owner Madeline W. Tonti of Mandeville, La., was granted side yard variances of two feet and 4.6 feet, to accommodate construction of a new home. The lot measures only 47 feet wide.

Tonti said the variances would allow her more flexibility in designing a home for the property.

But neighbors to the east and west of the lot were adamantly opposed to the construction. "The property as long as I can remember has been vacant," said an adjoining property owner. "No one's ever been able to build on it because it's under 50 feet wide," said the neighbor, who owns a stretch of some 250 feet fronting on North Beach Boulevard.

Accident victim leaves hospital

BY ED LEPOMA

An 11-year-old Bay Middle School student escaped serious injuries last week when he ran into the left side of a car traveling east on Second at Court Streets, rolled onto the hood and fell off onto the right side of the street.

The accident, about 3:20 p.m. Wednesday, brought workers pouring out of the County Courthouse and other offices, and construction crews halted work on an extension underway at a nearby church. The boy lay on the sidewalk awaiting medical attention in front of the Main Street Methodist Church Day Care Center. Among those consoling the child was the Rev. Van Carpenter, pastor of the church.

Bay St. Louis police and fire rescuers were summoned to the scene, along with a medical team from American Medical Response. The boy's mother also arrived shortly after the accident to comfort her son.

Jimmy McDougald suffered a broken leg and was transported to Hancock Medical Center. He was released Friday, according to officials.

Asst. Bay Police Chief David Stepro said Cpl. Mary Trudell is investigating the accident. No charges have been filed against the driver, who was not identified by police.

Suspect under $1.5 million bond

BY ED LEPOMA

It was a calm and collected Julie Winborn, who surrendered without incident to authorities who found her last Wednesday at a friend's home in Laurel, according to Waveland Police Chief James Varnell.

Today, the 32-year-old Bay

St. Louis woman sits in the Hancock County Justice Facility under $1.5 million bond, charged with two counts of murder and one charge of aggravated assault.

Art show set by Hancock seniors

BY BETSY GAGNET

Local artists are adding final touches to paintings as they decide which ones will be displayed in a new art show to be held next week.

It is the first Hancock County Art Association Show and Sale, scheduled May 7-8 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Bay St. Louis Depot. A reception on Wednesday, May 6, from 4-6 p.m. kicks off the event, which is sponsored by the Hancock County Senior Citizens Center.

About 100 artists will participate. The show will feature a variety of art forms, including painting, sculpture, pottery, and quilting.

over 60 years old and enrolled at the Hancock County Senior Citizens Center.

There is a real sense of camaraderie between the artists as several of them gathered recently to talk about their artwork and the art association.

Many of the members participate in art classes held each week at the Senior Citizens Center with instructor Bill Ray, who has been a good friend to the group.

It's good to be able to share your art with others, says one of the artists. The show will be a great opportunity to do so.

The Hancock County Art Association will hold its art show and sale May 7-8 at the Bay St. Louis Depot. The show will feature a variety of art forms, including painting, sculpture, pottery, and quilting. The show will be a great opportunity to share your art with others.

Pennies For Playground

Bay Middle School has implemented a new fund raiser to raise money for much needed benches and picnic tables and some playground equipment. The fund raiser is called "Pennies For Playground." Students will be bringing in spare change, and students will be participating in counting the change and keeping track of the money raised. Rodney and Michelle Bounds, parents at Bay Middle, volunteered their time to build the box to collect the pennies. Principal DeBlieux asks for parents' continued support and invites all parents to visit the school anytime.

Pagano honored with Bayou Boisdore bridge

BY ED LEPOMA

It's a small bridge by anybody's account, but it's big in the heart and mind of Sylvester Pagano.

District 3 Supervisor David V. LaRosa, Pagano, his family and friends, gathered Saturday to watch a plaque installed that officially names the new concrete and wider bridge over Bayou Boisdore the "Sylvester Pagano Bridge."

To many, Pagano is the history of Henderson Point, the fishing community that sits at the southernmost tip of western Harrison County.

He moved there with his parents as a boy of eight and never left, except for a stint in the U.S. Coast Guard in World War II. Pagano suffered prostate cancer in 1990, and the loss of his beloved wife Myrtle of 55 years in 1997, and the cancer has returned. He's undergoing radiation treatments and is in a wheelchair, but his memory and the way he endears himself to people are traits that haven't dimmed in 77 years. Spend five minutes with Pagano, and you're a stranger no more.

Pagano remembers when the county opened up the first bridge over Bayou Boisdore "on Labor Day, 1928."

"Before that, there was a ferry running every half-hour or hour from Henderson Point across the Bay of St. Louis to the foot of deMonteluzin Street," said Pagano.

"It took cars too—Model A's and T's. Farmers from Long Beach would board with fresh vegetables bound for the markets in New Orleans. Locals took it too, they just walked on."

"I set up a little soda shop by Railroad Avenue and made a few bucks."

Pagano said as a teenager, he didn't have to wait around for the ferry. He played football and attended Bay High School with the likes of C.C. McDonald, Leo Seals, John and Lyn Rutherford.

"I'd walk, heck, I'd run to Bay St. Louis in the morning over the old wooden bridge," Pagano remembers.

Later, Pagano operated a bait shop on the banks of the bayou. "It was seasonal, so in the off-season, I'd go out raking up oysters. We'd save up what I made and go out and buy a new car," he recalled.

Nannie deBardleben, a longtime resident of Pass Christian Isles, remembers the bait shop was where friends would often gather for coffee and conversation. It was deBardleben who pitched the idea of naming the bridge in Pagano's honor.

SYLVESTER PAGANO

"Sylvester is the history of Henderson Point. He's living history," she said.

Pagano's parents, the late Ann Mallini (for whom Mallini Bayou is named) moved from Pass Christian to Henderson Point in 1928, and in 1947 they bought land at the intersection of Bay View and Third Street and opened a hamburger shop.

The timing was not fateful. The 1947 hurricane came through and blew most everything away, but that, a later fire and other natural disasters were only temporary inconveniences. Pagano was an electrician, and another brother was a carpenter, so they helped with rebuilding bigger and better sandwich shops.

Those businesses were the cornerstone of what now has become Annie's Restaurant, an historic landmark that has been continually operated by Pagano's sister, Annie Lutz, and her husband, the late Thayer Lutz.

Pagano remembers the '47 hurricane, Betsy in 1965 and the mother of all hurricanes, Camille in 1969.

"We had a rope tied from my house on Third Street to Annie's house in case we had to evacuate one or the other," said Pagano. "But, the Navy came in with one of those Ducks (amphibious trucks) and told us, 'We're not asking you to leave, we're telling you, you're coming.'"

Pagano and his group of 13 took refuge on the second floor of what was then called the Rafferty Building on Scenic Drive in downtown Pass Christian.

"When the whole front wall blew out, we managed to make it down to the first floor," he said.

Saturday was a family day for Pagano, who gathered with his sister, Annie, three children, nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild and friends. Son, Sylvester Jr., came in from Ft. Walton Beach, Fla.; daughters, Jackie Nichols from Houma and Elizabeth Broom from Lafayette, La.

To his special friends, Pagano gave out an autographed book of recipes "his son had printed for him. It's entitled, 'Papa's Cookbook,' and includes many of his favorite recipes."

"Come back later on in the week. I'll save you one," Pagano promised.

Three drug arrests made

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Shane Corr, director of the Hancock County Drug Task Force reports three recent drug arrests have been made.

Corr said, on April 28, Gary W. Thorntonsen II, 23, 813 Ruth Drive, Gulfport, was arrested and charged with possession with intent to deliver one ounce of cocaine, and possession of drug paraphernalia. His bond was set at $10,500.

Hancock County Lt. Tim Broder stopped Thorntonsen on Interstate 10 near the 16-mile marker for a traffic violation. A passenger in his vehicle, Jacqueline M. Henley, 24, 117

Donna Street, Gulfport, was arrested and charged with possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia. Her bond was set at $5,000, Corr added.

Hancock County Deputy Abe Long assisted Broder in the arrest, and Task Force Officer Jeff Hare is in charge of the case.

On April 29, John August Welborn, 18, 303 St. George St., Bay St. Louis, was arrested by Task Force Officer Hare and charged with the sale of a controlled substance. His bond was set at $5,000.

Corr said the arrest resulted from the sale of one-half of an ounce of marijuana by Welborn.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

One has only to injure a thumb to realize how often it is used in everyday life.

In a wind-and-rain battle with my umbrella and hat Wednesday at the Pass Christian Yacht Club, while was attending Rotary meeting, I managed to cut my left-hand thumb.

In typing I use my thumbs almost as much as any other fingers, so this caused a bit of a problem because it was a bit sore.

Apparently I use my left as well as right thumb on a regular basis and feel lost without the use.

Just for practice, try buttoning those wee buttons on your collar without the use of a thumb or opening a band-aid, and see how well it goes.

It has been a much awaited day for Nel Frisbie and staff at Latter & Blum, Inc./Realtors, 1188 Highway 90, Bay St. Louis.

And in celebration of moving into their new quarters, adjacent to their old office, they will sponsor the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Business After Hours on Thursday evening from 5 to 7. A ribbon cutting will be held at 4 p.m.

Admission is two business cards, and there will be door prizes.

As some of you may know, the Month of May is Older Americans Month.

Like many other communities, a large number of our residents are in this age category.

In recognition of this, the Hancock County Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) will sponsor an open reception, show and sale for the Hancock County Art Association this coming week.

On Wednesday, May 6, from 4 to 6 p.m. the reception will be held at the Bay St. Louis Depot.

Jo Ann Lagasse, executive director of RSVP, said, "This is an open invitation to the general public to come by and view the wonderful talents of our seniors."

In addition to Wednesday's reception, there will be a Show and Sale by Art Association members on Thursday and Friday, May 7 and 8, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Depot.

There will be some 25-30 Hancock County Art Association members, who will have their works of art displayed. Over the years, several members of the association have received rave reviews for their works of art.

The Hancock County Art Association's instructor is Billy Ray. The late Carl Baldenhofer was a longtime instructor and helped form the association.

I am always amazed at the talents of our residents, and even if you are not interested in purchasing art, it will be a great experience to visit the show on Thursday or Friday. This will show your appreciation for our older residents of this area.

Monday through Wednesday of this week, the Diamondhead Country Club will host the Trans Senior Women's International Four-Ball Championship.

Of local interest is the fact that Mrs. John (Iva May) McDonald of Bay St. Louis and the late Mrs. Powell (Joan) Glass, former editor of The Sea Coast Echo, were instrumental in the formation of the seniors tournament.

Mrs. McDonald, past president, is still a board member of the Women's Trans National Golf Association. Senior lady golfers from across the nation will be teeing off at 8:30 a.m. Monday and Tuesday and 8 a.m. on Wednesday.

I would like to welcome tournament director Wilma Gilliland and the 75 golfers from across the country to Hancock County.

Good golfing to each and everyone of you.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Legislators guard sales tax

It's a taxing question. A single bill that died in committee has political tongues wagging long after legislators have gone home. The bill would have allowed the city of Ridgeland to enact a one-cent sales tax on all items now taxed at seven percent. The money would have been used to fund street and road construction in the fast-growing Jackson suburb.

But legislators said no. They didn't want to set a precedent. Had the bill passed, it would have been an open invitation to municipal government statewide to jump on the general sales tax band wagon.

That's something legislative leaders don't want to happen. Concern is already being expressed about the expansion of the so-called "hospitality" or "tourist" taxes which allow local officials to add a penny or two to motel and restaurant bills. The money generated is used for economic development.

But giving municipalities authority to finance what would become a potpourri of projects would quickly push general sales tax rates to eight percent. Some school leaders also fear the Legislature would be more reluctant to raise general sales taxes in the future for education.

Legislators are facing a dilemma. Despite spending a record $4.1 billion for General Fund project, they had to renege on some commitments made in previous sessions because there simply weren't enough dollars. And preliminary revenue forecasts don't show a huge pot of new money next year.

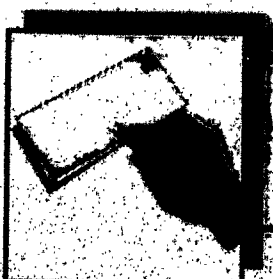

Remember that 1999 is an election year, and legislators meeting in January for their final session of their four-year terms will toe the line of tax hikes. It would be political suicide to pass a tax increase just before citizens go to the ballot box.

But the new crop of legislators who will take their seats in January 2000 will have four years for voters to forget. That's when a tax increase is likely, and lawmakers want to keep all taxing options open.

You think you're a politician.

We think you're a saint.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reader says DEQ is out to get the little guy

To the Editor:
Greetings! You are to be commended for your choosing such a noble and vital profession and for a newspaper which is a pleasure to read.

I attended the meeting on the 26th regarding the proposed study of fecal coliform by the DEQ. I went primarily because of the phrases in their ad which included such dubious words as "likely contributors" and "mainly due."

Last November the Hancock Board of Supervisors handed complete control of all building in Hancock County to the state Health Department after declaring that an emergency existed! We all know the effects of their action.

Well, this meeting was called for the sole purpose of doing a study on fecal coliform and its contribution to pollution. Apparently proof does not exist that there is an emergency, but I'm sure they'll find it, because only then can the hysteria surrounding poop be justified.

It was an interesting meeting. Right off the bat we were told that low interest loans and grants were available for the building of community sewerage. Hey, folks, those are cover-up words for taxpayer dollars!

Questions regarding the massive dumping of corporate toxic wastes into the air, ground and water were sidestepped right along with the question of sores on fish resulting from high levels of mercury.

The DEQ doesn't care about that! They are concerned only with fecal coliform, which can be blamed on the little guy, even though cattle, horses, pigs and every other animal poops.

The problem with poop is not going to go away, even if we cover this state with community sewerage, because after heavy rains even community sewers overflow.

Not to worry, folks, an old-fashioned, properly installed septic tank! The problem lies just precisely where I told the DEQ, Health Department and others present.

It lies with improperly built septic systems and people who dig a hole in the ground, cover it with tin and run a pipe to the ditches.

The ditches throughout our county belong to the public, and I strongly urge the public to demand in no uncertain terms that the Health Department personnel get up off their butts and drive around this county looking for the only existing, hard and irrefutable evidence which points directly at offenders, plastic pipes entering the ditches which carry poop pool.

No other proof of contamination is available or necessary! Time and time again I have heard people complain that the Health Department should do this or do that. No government entity is going to do anything at all for the little guy until they are made to do it!

The DEQ, instead of concentrating its efforts where it should, with the severe and destructive corporate toxins produced by industry, is once again picking on the little guy.

Spend those tax dollars disguised as low-interest loans and grants on locating the people who cannot afford to have a well-built septic system on their property and build it for them!

As for whoever it was at the meeting who stated that 1,000 people a day are flocking to this area, I say use some of the $5 million for roads to turn them away from here.

We have too many people here now, and I remember reading in the newspaper that the two employees presently working in the Hancock Permit Office are so overwhelmed with the enormous amount of permits being issued, 73 in one month, that they are pleading for another employee.

I intend to keep a very close eye on the goings-on of our local politicians and urge every other citizen to do the same.

I intend to do my very best to help this present Board of Supervisors to move along and let someone who cares about the common folk take over.

I spent over three months trying to get 20 feet of ditch cleaned in order to put in a culvert pipe, finally gave up and had it done myself.

I also met a young lady who was told that she couldn't put a trailer for her and her child on her father's land, because there was already one on it, and even though it was 30 acres, two trailers would constitute a trailer park.

She was told to have her father deed some acreage over to her, and then, if she could get a sewer permit from the Health Department, she could have a home.

I am absolutely disgusted at what is happening with this county and hope that all citizens will become involved, not just the realtors, rich folks and others who hope to turn our simple, quiet county into another city.

And while I'm at it, let's demand that that eyesore now parked at Bayou Caddy be towed out to sea and sunk. That gambling boat has destroyed a beautiful area for fishing along with the little canals where boats could be parked. It is now parking lots and abandoned buildings.

See you all at the polls!

Septic tanks should be allowed, writer says

To the Editor:

This letter to the editor is about septic tanks in Mississippi.

The Health Department, which was formed about 50 years ago because the senators thought it was a way to improve the health of the people, now say that septic tanks will not work south of I-10.

Nine out of 10 people know that this is a lie. It's a sham to promote the credibility of the ordinance passed last October by the supervisors to promote central sewer systems, because the plumbers will be able to make more money that way.

There have been 157 permits applied for here in BaySide Park, but only three were granted since October. 154 x 50 = $7,700 collected by the health department from citizens.

They know that there is no chance of us getting a central sewer system for at least 20 years.

They also know that nine out of 10 installed septic systems are working.

They also know where these that are not working are, but do nothing about it.

They also know that the unimproved lots in this subdivision, as of now, have a negative value, because taxes still have to be paid, and finally, they know that this ordinance and the way it has been enforced has stopped construction, but there is one thing the voters should remember on the next election day.

One of the supervisors, Philip Moran, voted against that stupid ordinance.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

"Fourteen-year-old Andrew Wurst of Edinboro, Pa., will be tried as an adult for his part in the school dance shooting."

A crushing reminder of Jonesboro, Ark., West Paducah, Ky., Pearl, Miss. and Bethel, Alaska, this latest episode of a child gone berserk forces everyone to ask questions which were unthinkable just a dozen years ago.

Clifton Labbe, the Provincial Superior of the Divine Word Missionary brothers and priests, put it in words recently: "As I become older and more introspective, I see a culture that I find difficult to define. Is it a culture of life or a culture of death?"

Unfortunately, totting up the scary statistics of children maiming and killing each other and adults, I came to the conclusion over a decade ago that we live a culture of death. No, we do not just live in a culture of death. We live it.

Companies which stand to make money off such movies, seem to come up with the right studies and surveys, showing that there is no known correlation between violence on TV and off.

Then, how do those companies explain the insatiable appetite of Americans for violence, guns, sex and drugs on TV? Only those shows saturated with such ingredients do succeed. No correlation, hey? Whence, then, the hunger and thirst?

Our gun culture straddles the fence between sport uses and lawless, even lethal applications: In its eagerness to protect everyone's "right to bear arms," the National Rifle Association goes overboard championing assault weapons.

Even otherwise alert people such as Rush Limbaugh satirize "Time" magazine for its mind-numbing cover of April 6, 1998, featuring Andrew Godlen, 11 and Mitchell Johnson, 13. The precocious killers obviously lived a gun/violence culture.

Gun control, of course, should not be the focus of discussion. That is a truly bogus issue. The correct term should be "gun moderation," where reasonably potent pieces of firearms are purchased, registered, secured and used responsibly.

One of the biggest shocks, of course, is that this lethal child phenomenon is not a black or minority thing. It is, plainly, simply, a child thing, regardless of origins.

Not surprisingly, these evil, deadly children who live a gun/violence culture can hardly be saddled with the credit for their condition. That dubious distinction goes to the adults who are the unwitting root of our culture of death.

Many of the same adults who decry the heinous, unfathomable nature of child violence, are the very ones, who, without a blink, tell you a woman should have total control over her body, even to the point of abortion for any reason.

While many highly intelligent heads and otherwise moral minds will argue strenuously to the contrary, there can be no doubt that lethal violence against life begins with deadly violence against life as it is developing in the womb.

More than a score and a half million abortions later, the Supreme Court decision of 1973, legalizing abortion on demand, simultaneously mandated a culture of death which has moved by osmosis from our adults to our children.

Come on adults! Accuse your children, and you convict yourselves who, by killing the unborn as you would parasites, have taught your children to spurn the sacredness of life.

Ours, a culture of death

District golf champions

The St. Stanislaus golf team claimed the District 4A title for the 1998 season, continuing its trend winning the district 4A title five of the last six years. The team finished the regular season undefeated with an 8-0 record and will go on to compete in the state tournament May 5 at the Forrest Country Club. Under the leadership of teacher and coach Matt Allman, left, the team is comprised of senior Andy Jacobson, freshman Kenneth Jones, junior Chris Genin, sophomore Edward Flores and junior Kyle Kidd. Team captain Andy Jacobson, who finished the district tournament with the lowest round of 77 schools and 34 athletes, said of the upcoming state competition, "We are looking forward to it. We are in the hunt to win it. We are positive and ready to do our best."

Poeder, Daniels vie for title

Grand Casino Biloxi, in association with Top Rank, Inc., will present an evening of boxing at the Biloxi Grand Theatre Tuesday, May 5.

Don Diego Poeder, an undefeated cruiserweight, will go head to head with Robert Daniels in what could be a very intriguing world title bout.

Poeder (21-0) with 15 by knockout will take on Daniels (37-3-1, 30 KO's) for the vacant IBO 190-pound cruiserweight title. Presently, Poeder is the WBU title-holder. Daniels began boxing as a pro in 1984 and is the IBC champion.

The Top Rank card is also scheduled to include Cruiserweight Vassiliy "Russian Tiger" Jirov (14-0, 14 KO's) now boxing out of Scottsdale, Ariz., taking on New England star Richard "The Model" LaMontagne (19-1-1, 15 KO's).

Jirov was voted best boxer in the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta. In his last bout, Jirov tore apart Jason Waller of Virginia, knocking him down twice for a KO. The two will box 12 rounds for the vacant WBC International Cruiserweight championship.

Also on the scheduled undercard are USA Olympians Zahir

"Z Man" Raheem (9-0) of Philadelphia, who will take on Noel Rodriguez (6-1-1) of Puerto Rico.

David Diaz (7-0) a southpaw lightweight from Chicago will face Alberto Sepulveda (2-1) of Puerto Rico. Diaz has won many titles including the 1996 Golden Gloves crown.

Tickets are $45/ringside, $25/general floor, and $15/balcony and are available at the Biloxi Grand Theatre Box Office (1-800-WIN-2-WIN).

Tickets are also available at TicketMaster outlets. Doors open at 6 p.m., first fight is scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

Golf Academy offers free lessons

The Arnold Palmer Golf Academy at The Bridges Golf Resort at Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis is participating in the national Golf Digest promotion, "Cure Your Slice." The Academy will offer free 10-minute lessons for amateurs Saturday, May 16, 9 a.m.-noon and 1-4 p.m.

According to Golf Digest, more than 80 percent of golfers suffer from a slice. May has been declared "National Cure Your Slice Month" by the PGA. The purpose of the promotion is to enhance public awareness of PGA professionals as experts in golf instruction by helping amateur golfers remedy their slice. More than 3,100 professionals have committed to giving the free lessons.

Coincidentally, the Arnold Palmer Golf Academy at The Bridges Golf Resort celebrates its two-year anniversary May 15. It is one of only six Arnold Palmer Golf Academies in the world.

Chris Henderson, APGA-

Casino Magic head instructor, said, "We are very excited to have the opportunity to participate in a national promotion and to have the opportunity to bring Arnold Palmer's teaching and playing philosophies to golfing amateurs."

Specific programs offered at the APGA focus on the basic fundamentals of the full swing and short game, practice techniques and course strategy.

"The features of the 11-acre practice facility enable students to create any situation that they might find on the golf course. And the Palmer-designed course itself is enjoyable and challenging for players of all abilities," said the director of the Arnold Palmer Golf Academy Brad Brewer.

The Academy is open seven days a week offering multiple instruction options such as hourly lessons, clinics, weekend packages, half-day programs and even week-long vacation packages.

For information about the "Cure Your Slice" promotion or the Arnold Palmer Golf Academy, call (228) 466-8062.

Three BAYS teams to vie in State Soccer Tournament

Three Bay Area Youth Soccer League girls teams earned spots in the State Soccer Tournament scheduled for May 9 and 10 in Tupelo.

The teams are the U-14 Bay Brats, U-12 Bay Breakers and the U-10 Bay Crushers.

Bay Brats

The U-14 girls Bay Brats took first place in their age bracket in the Southern District Soccer Tournament held last weekend in Hattiesburg to advance to the state tournament.

The team shut out all but one of the teams they faced, scoring 22 goals and allowing only one. In their opening contest Saturday, the Brats shutout the South Mississippi Soccer Club team, 8-0.

The team matched that feat in its next game against the Hattiesburg II team, winning 8-0.

In the semi-finals Sunday, the Brats beat Picayune 4-1 to reach the finals where they shutout Ocean Springs 2-0, to claim the district title.

Eight team members scored in the tournament. Melissa Chapoton led the way with five goals. Emily Meyers and Julie Rebout had four each. Katherine Milner scored three times. Alicia Asper and Samantha Billingsley each had two goals and Mikki Kenny and Camille Covington scored one goal each.

The defense, led by Clare Adam, Mikki Kenny, Jennifer Adams, Emilie Scianna, Colleen Kirby, Kate Moran and Natalie Mitchell stopped the opposing teams dead in their tracks.

Goalie Ellen Ladner earned three shutouts and allowed only one goal in the tournament.

The Brats play May 9-10 in Tupelo for the state championship.

The team is coached by Steve Reboul and Mike Meyers.

Bay Breakers

The U-12 Bay Breakers breezed through the first day of the Southern District Soccer Tournament held last weekend at Tatum Park in Hattiesburg, with two shutouts; 6-0 over the Singing River Soccer representative and 8-0 over the Biloxi Soccer Club team.

In the first game, Shawn Price scored two goals, while Jennifer Coote, Rachel Cranford, Jessica Hearty, and Malory Siler added one goal each.

The scoring barrage continued in the second game with Rachel Cranford recording a hat trick with three goals. Caroline Boelte, Jane Covington, Jessica Hearty, Deret Laughlin and Whitney Thomas each scored one goal.

Laurie Benvenuti and Kolbi Cameron added great defensive play to help in the shutouts.

Lindsey Sramek and Kandace Boos were a big boost at midfield and forward with good speed and effort.

The Breakers won their bracket Sunday, with a 1-0 victory over the Hattiesburg Youth Soccer Association team.

The first half ended scoreless after intense pressure by both teams. With a strong wind behind them in the second half, the Breakers finally scored on a corner kick by Jennifer Coote when Shawn Price corraled the ball and nailed the rebound shot into the right corner.

A tremendous team effort resulted in a shutout of Hattiesburg who had scored 11 goals in two games prior to the final bracket game.

The Breakers won the championship with a 2-1 victory over the Singing River Soccer Club team, the winner of Bracket 1.

A first-half goal by Jennifer Coote gave the Bay Breakers the early lead, but SRSC tied the game in the third quarter on a rebound in the box.

Late in the fourth quarter a penalty kick gave the title to Bay St. Louis when Rachel Cranford got her shot by a diving goalie for the score.

Bay Crushers

The Bay Rotary Crushers, the undefeated champion of the Bay Area Youth Soccer League U-10 girls division, completed a successful Southern District Soccer Tournament, placing third out of 15 teams and going on to Tupelo to compete in the state tournament.

The Crushers opened the tourney by defeating Singing River 4-1 on goals by Margaret Hadden, Addie Brannin and Amanda Meyers.

The team continued its winning play against the first-ranked Hattiesburg team.

Annie Giardino scored a hat trick in that win. Their only loss was a hard-fought 0-1 game against Gulfport's #1 team.

Pass boxer competes for All-Army

By Michael Tolzmann
Fort Carson, Colo.—The soldiers gathered at this Rocky Mountain outpost love to fight. Especially the son of a Pass Christian woman. But, instead of M-16 rifles, M-1A tanks and attack helicopters, a select group of soldiers are using a weapon almost as lethal—their hands.

Army Sgt. Corey L. Bernard, son of Cynthia B. Ruthledge of Pass Christian, is matching wits, stamina and punching power against 40 of the best boxers in the Army to determine who will continue marching toward their ultimate goal—the gold in Sydney.

Bernard, boxing in the 139-pound weight class, is vying to make the All-Army team, where he would represent his service in the next round of competition, the Armed Forces Boxing Championship. The winner there would compete in the Olympic trials—the last step toward the 2000 Summer Olympics Games in Sydney, Australia.

"I was part of the camp back in 1994, and now three years later I'm back. I started boxing at age 13, but didn't actually fight until six years ago. My record is 20 and seven. I'm destined to become the world class champion. I'm an Army boxer, and I'm planning on doing what has to be done to win the gold," Bernard said.

At the hand of the Army boxing coaches, soldiers like Bernard are cramming as much training into a two-week camp as possible. For hours each day, they endure drills designed to improve balance, endurance and combination punching techniques. The training is intense.

"I was first training here at Fort Carson representing the local boxing team. All of us were hand picked to participate in the All Army trials to become the best fighters and to represent the Army," Bernard said.

Each boxer here shares aspirations of making the All-Army team. But for many of these soldiers, the road to reaching this goal has been long and hard fought. Bernard's experience in boxing began long before he put on Army camouflage fatigues.

"I started my training in boxing at a young age, but didn't actually fight until I enlisted in the military. I've won many different titles, and I'm looking to win many more," Bernard said.

Even though Bernard's entire focus is now with boxing, he remains a soldier. He is currently a petroleum supply specialist at Fort Carson.

"Aside from boxing, I'm studying and preparing for promotion to staff sergeant. I still need to attend a board and basic noncommissioned officers course in Virginia," Bernard said.

Navy dedicates supercomputing center, establishes institute

The Navy at Stennis Space Center dedicated one of the world's most powerful supercomputing centers recently and announced the formation of a supercomputing institute that builds a federal, state, university and private-sector supercomputing, training and visualization cooperative.

In addition, Kent Kresa, chairman and CEO of Northrop Grumman Inc., announced a pledge of $100,000 to the new Trent Lott Supercomputing and Visualization Institute over the next three years.

Said Dr. Don Durham, Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command technical director: "This dedication is a major milestone and marks the successful result of 12 years of hard work by outstanding Navy, Grumman and various university experts in state-of-the-art supercomputing visualization training and communication."

"Capping this Naval Oceanographic Department of Defense MSRC milestone is the opportunity for collaboration by DoD and Navy with the new Trent Lott Supercomputing and Visualization Institute and its spectrum of potential partners."

The supercomputer center, located at the Naval Oceanographic Office (NAVOCEANO) in Hancock County, is one of four Department of Defense Major Shared Resource Center (DoD MSRC).

The center is one of the 10 most powerful in the world after anear doubling of its capacity in February.

The NAVOCEANO DoD MSRC provides specialized support in five critical defense computational technology areas: climate, weather and ocean modeling; computational fluid dynamics; signal image processing; computational electromagnetics; and acoustics and environmental quality and simulation. Nearly 2,000 DoD scientists nationwide use the center's services.

Kresa called the expanded MSRC a "tremendous onslaught of capability."

Northrop Grumman's Data

Systems and Services Division, under a contract awarded by the Navy in 1986 for the DoD High Performance Computing Modernization Program, performed the upgrade.

Rear Adm. Kenneth Barbor, commander, Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command, called the computer center "operationally prime."

"If you are not the best, you run the real risk of being irrelevant," he said. "The MSRC is a world-class operation."

The Naval Oceanographic Office is the largest component of the Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command, an organization comprised of about 3,000 personnel at some 60 activities worldwide.

Its mission is to collect, interpret and apply global data and information for safety at sea, strategic and tactical warfare and weapons system design, development and deployment.

U.S. Sen. Trent Lott (R-Miss.), guest speaker for the event, recalled the early days of the supercomputing center and the contribution of the people of south Mississippi and Southeastern Louisiana, who operate it.

"You are the ones that are making me a truth-sayer," he told the crowd of about 200. "When I have said, 'our people can do this,' or 'we can get people from Mississippi, Louisiana and, yes, across the country to come here to this site to do this job,' and yes, you have done it. And you will continue to do it."

The MSRC supercomputer center will collaborate with the Trent Lott Supercomputing and Visualization Institute. Other components partnering with the institute will include the DoD MSRC Visualization Laboratory; NAVOCEANO's Program Environment and Training (PET) Facility; and the University of Southern Mississippi's Center of Higher Learning's (CHL) future immersive visualization and technology center.

Participating with the CHL are the Mississippi State University, the Pearl River Community College, and the University of New Orleans.

Kresa said the universities' role and the institute gives the NAVOCEANO MSRC an added dimension.

"(It is a) coming together not only to teach but also to do research, because they have such tremendous capacity here to do that research," he said.

Establishment of the institute is another step toward creating a world class center of science, high technology and oceanographic expertise collaborating with Navy oceanographic organizations at Stennis Space Center.

P&Z — Neighbors object

He contended the property originally was set aside as a future street, but the county never accepted it as such. Later, the lot was inherited by two women who never were able to build on it, he said.

Also objecting to construction on the site was Sherry Fillingame, who owns property to the west of Tonti's lot. She said the proposed construction would devalue other homes in the area.

Tonti, however, said she has documentation from the city confirming that the property constitutes a "buildable" lot.

The four commissioners present voted in favor of recommending approval of the variance.

Another Louisiana resident, Ronald Robe't, won two variances for constructing a home at 808 South Beach Boulevard, another long, narrow site. The commission agreed to five-foot variances on a side property line and the rear property line.

But that vote didn't come until after the commission heard a protracted argument over the proposed construction.

Robe't said deed restrictions on the lot require a front setback of 125 feet. He's also confined by several large live oaks on the property, and an eight-foot-wide easement that runs from Beach Boulevard down the side of the lot.

Ownership of that easement and potential use of it by Robe't consumed about an hour of debate before commissioners agreed that they couldn't resolve the legal questions involved.

Steve Morehouse, whose home at 811 Hancock Street abuts Robe't's property, urged the commission to postpone action. He said he had not been given proper legal notice of the meeting, and issues between him and Robe't remain unresolved. Aside from the issue of the easement's usage, Morehouse complained that the construction would spoil his vista of the waterfront.

Robe't said he and his wife plan to build a two-story home, featuring four bedrooms and four baths. The house has been planned to sit strategically on the property, avoiding any damage to the trees' roots, and complying with the restrictions on the property, he told the commission.

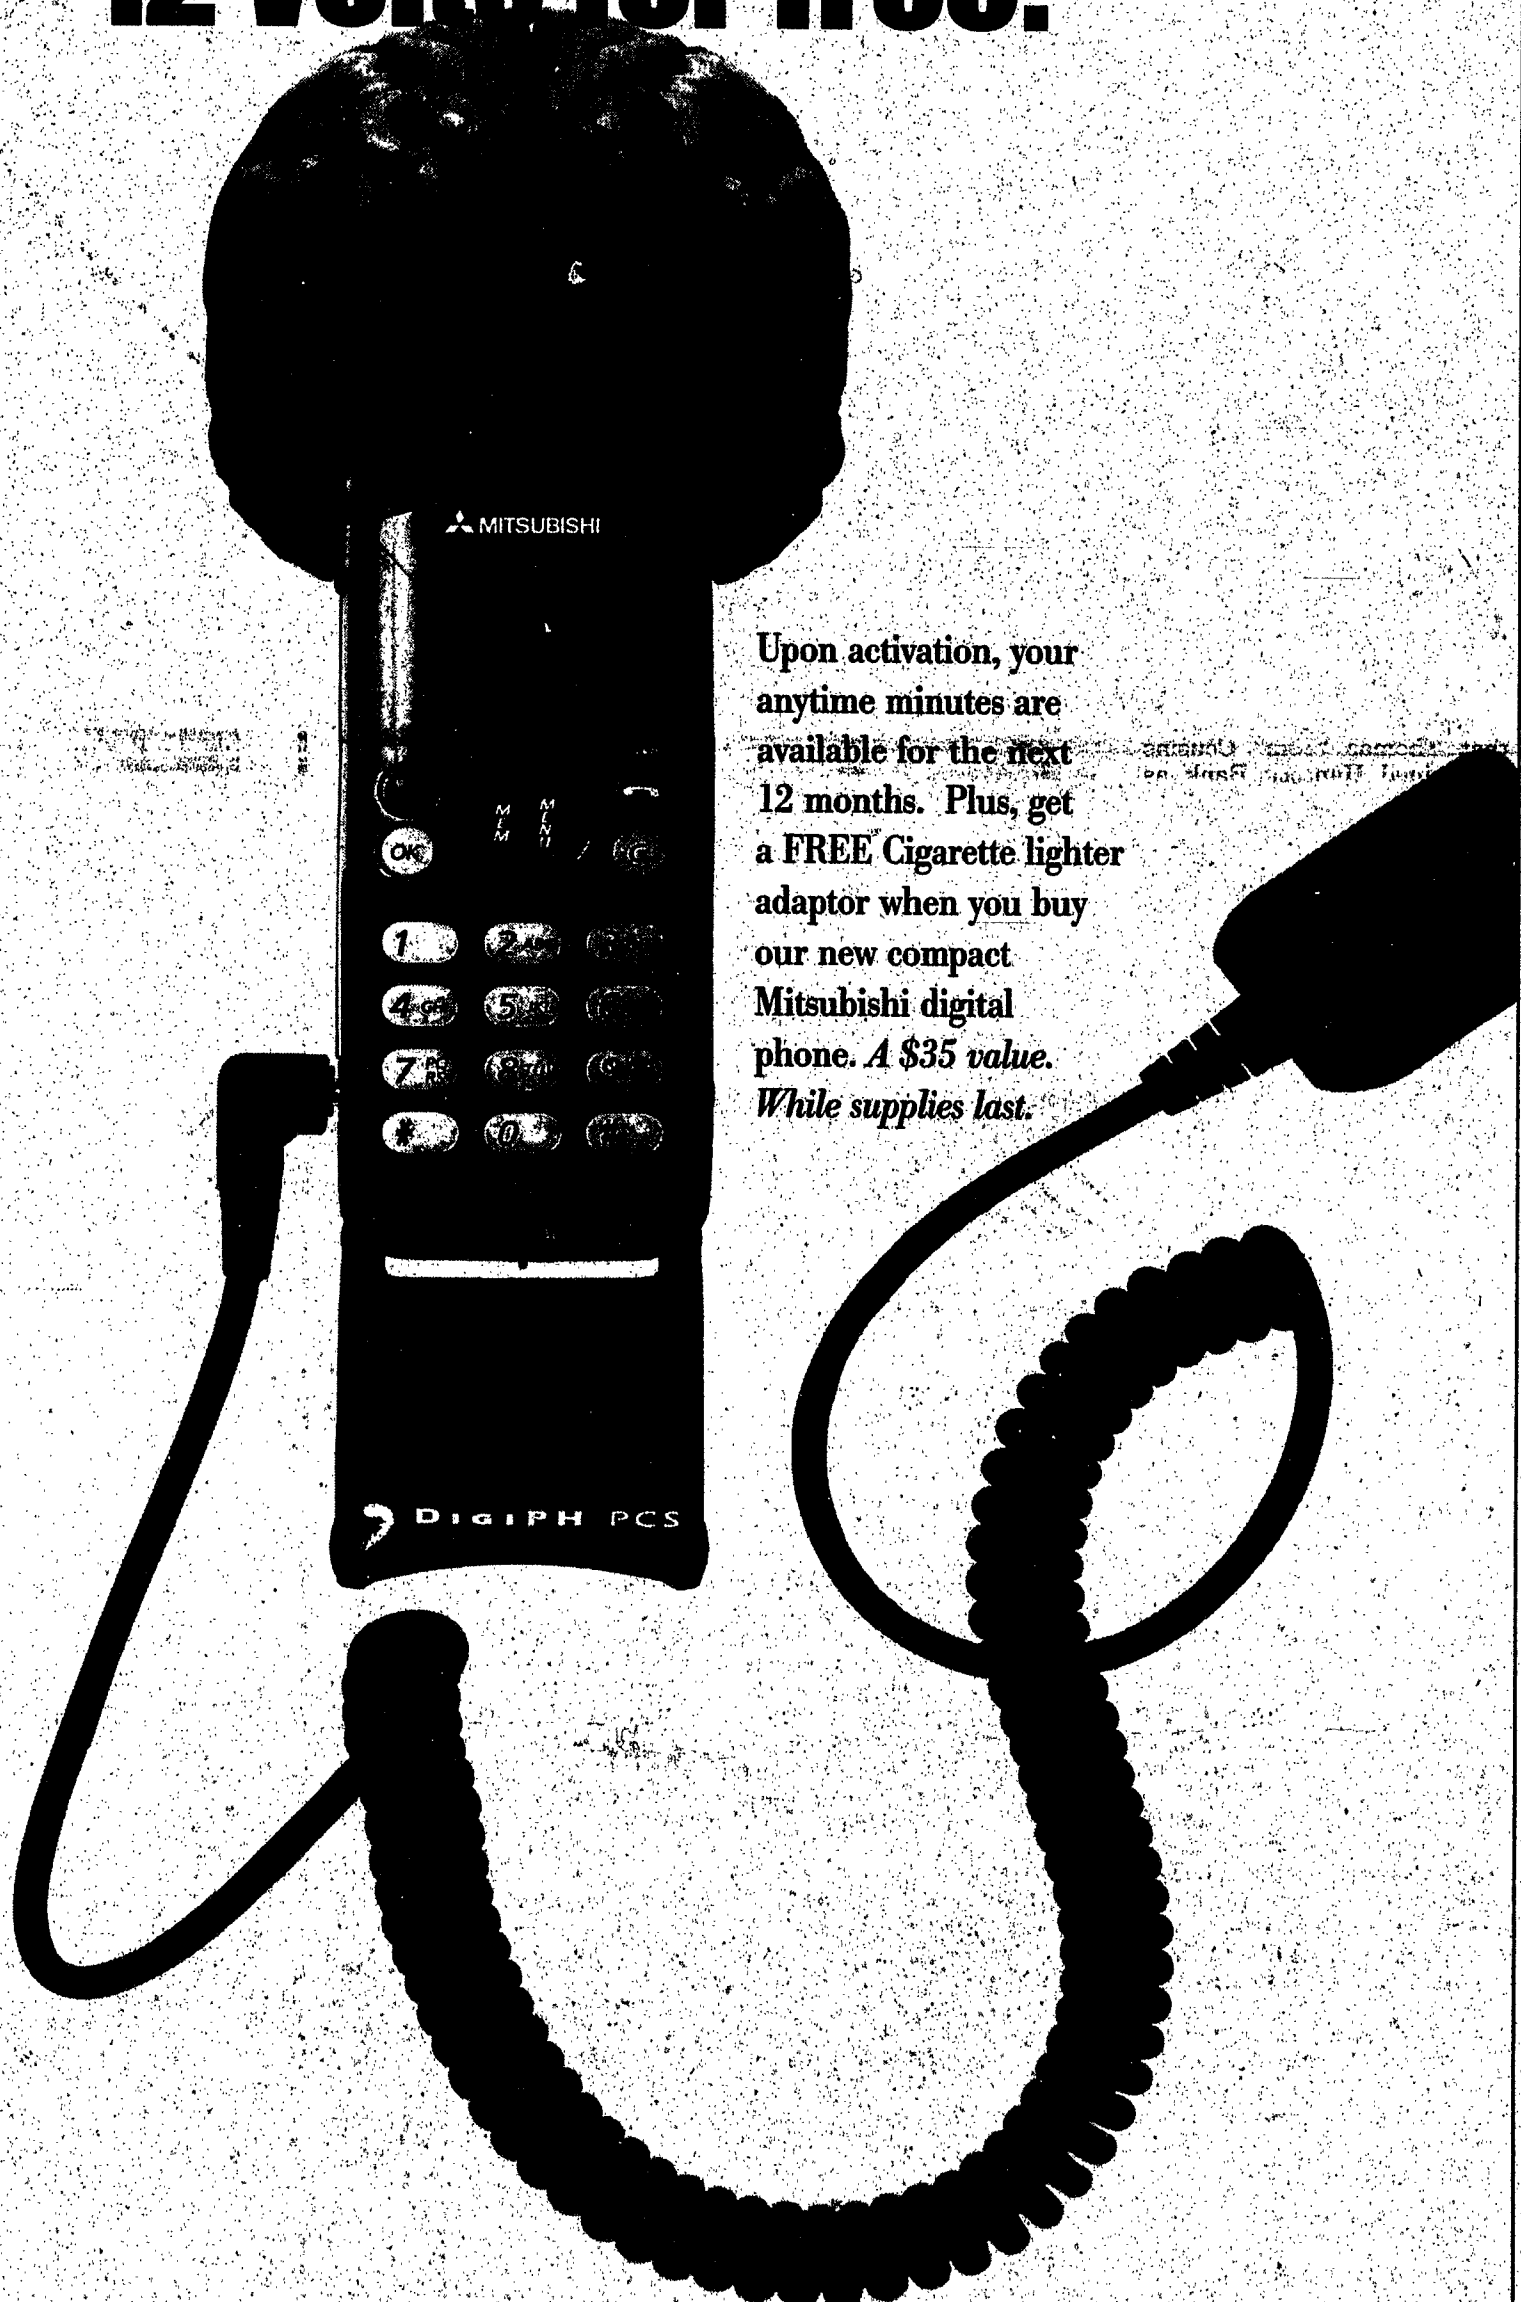

While he had asked for a variance allowing him to build within 10 feet of the rear property line, the commission recommended that he build only within 15 feet of the back line.

Casino industry to address issues at Mississippi forum

When the casino gaming industry gathers in Biloxi, May 5-6 for the Southern Gaming Summit, several key casino industry issues will be discussed, including research on disordered gambling, children and minors in the casino environment, and promotion of responsible gaming.

The Mississippi-based gaming summit, which will be held at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum and Convention Center in Biloxi, will also feature new participants who will be addressing some of these important industry issues, including representatives from the National Center for Responsible Gaming, the Mississippi Council on Compulsive Gambling and the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children.

On Tuesday, May 5, 2:30-5 p.m. (Room D-5), the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children will conduct a technical assistance seminar on the issue of children and minors in casinos.

Subtitled, "A Technical Assistance Program for Unattended and Missing/Exploited Children and Minors," this program will be led by Ernie Allen, president and CEO of the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children (NCMEC).

Last year, the NCMEC and the AGA formed a partnership in an effort to ensure the safety of children who visit hotel-casino properties with their parents.

In this seminar, the NCMEC will offer its expertise and assistance regarding the best practices for keeping children and minors safe and secure.

The steps taken by the AGA to address this important issue will also be discussed. The seminar is intended for security, hotel/casino management and operations; legal personnel; public relations professionals; and human resources representatives. All casino employees will be admitted free of charge.

During a keynote dinner Tuesday, May 5, 7-9 p.m. (Room A-1), International Game Technology (IGT) will announce the details of "Responsible Gaming Education Week," a major component to the AGA's "Responsible Gaming National Education Campaign."

Casino companies will be asked to devote the entire week of August 3 to promoting responsible gaming activities.

As part of this effort, the AGA will provide more than 200,000 educational brochures, financed by IGT, on disordered gambling to casino employees across the country.

On Wednesday morning, May 6, although closed to the public, the Gaming Entertainment Research and Education Foundation (GEREF) — the board that oversees the National Center for Responsible Gaming — will use the occasion of the Mississippi gaming meetings as an opportunity to hold a meeting to discuss future research on gambling disorders.

The board is comprised of industry and non-industry leaders.

On Wednesday, May 6 at noon, the GERE board of directors will be joined by community leaders in the Gulf Coast area for a luncheon to discuss the important work of the National Center for Responsible Gaming.

Tom Brosig, president and CEO of Grand Casinos Inc., and a GERE board member, will host the luncheon at Brulos Restaurant in the Biloxi Island View Hotel (245 Beach Blvd.).

On Wednesday, May 6, 2:30-5 p.m. (Room D-5), Dr. Howard Shaffer, director of Harvard Medical School's Division on Addictions, will present his research findings from the study he co-authored, Estimating the Prevalence of Disordered Gambling Behavior in the United States and Canada: A Meta-Analysis.

The seminar, titled "Understanding Gambling and its Potential Health Consequences," will be co-sponsored by the National Center for Responsible Gaming — the organization that provided the grant for the study — and the Mississippi Council on Compulsive Gambling.

In addition to presenting his research findings, Dr. Shaffer will address several of the key issues often raised when examining problem gambling behavior.

This program is a repeat of a highly successful program co-sponsored by the AGA last February in Las Vegas.

The seminar is intended for educators; social services professionals; financial planners; banking industry; EAP providers; human resources staff; communications & public relations representatives; corporate responsible gaming staff; table operations representatives; executives; treatment professionals; health care providers; and problem gambling counselors. It is open to all casino employees free of charge.

The AGE represents the gaming-entertainment industry by addressing regulatory, legislative and educational issues. The association serves as a clearinghouse for information, develops aggressive educational and advocacy programs and provides leadership in addressing industry issues that are of public concern.

Suspect returned

Polk was with his mother when she was taken into custody in Jones County. Varnell said he has been released to Winborn's brother, David, "but, he's going to need some counseling."

It was David who discovered the body April 17 of his and Julie's mother, Mrs. Inez Bouis, 66, in her downtown Railroad Street home, covered with a sheet in a living room chair. Upstairs, police later found the body of Winborn's husband, Grady, 56. Both had been shot in the back of the head.

Mrs. Bouis's 1990 Honda Accord was missing, and police immediately put out a description of Winborn and the vehicle. An extensive search was launched for Winborn, especially at casinos along the Mississippi Coast, in Tunica, and as far away as Las Vegas.

Police said Winborn had a gambling problem, and also wanted her for questioning in the April 9 shooting of a Waveland woman.

Bay St. Louis Police Department Tom Burleson said they were led to Laurel after a check of phone records revealed she had been having telephone conversations with a male friend in Laurel spanning a six-month period.

Detectives went to Laurel and came back empty-handed, but last Wednesday, another tip paid off, and they arrested Winborn at the home of Ray Welborn, her friend.

Varnell said Bay St. Louis public defender Rep. J.P. Compretta has been selected to represent Winborn on the two murder charges. She is scheduled to make her first public appearance on those charges at 6 p.m. May 6 in Bay St. Louis City Court.

On Thursday, City Judge Lee Klein appointed attorney Nicholas Haas to represent Winborn on the aggravated assault charge. She is accused of shooting Alva "Ivy" Hopson, at a Waveland apartment complex on April 9. Hopson and Winborn were co-workers at Jack's Steak House, in Waveland. Hopson was shot in the head in the April 9 attack, but survived.

Show — Reception and sale for seniors

Vivian Neely, a painter for 15 years, agreed saying, "We have a good time."

The room broke into laughter when Lou Wilkerson chimed in that "It's cheaper than therapy."

Although obviously enjoying themselves and each other's company, the artists are dedicated to their craft and most association members have sold their works.

"We have some really talented artists," said RSVP Director Joanne Lagasse.

The art association was begun through RSVP with Carl Baldenhofer serving as instructor. Many of the senior artists have been painting for over a decade.

"When I first started painting, my kids said, 'We hope we're not getting a painting for Christmas,'" laughed Joyce Hanks, who has been painting for 15 years. "They're selling them, and my kids have been hanging all over their houses."

James recalled that when she sold her house, the buyers requested that one of her paintings be included in the sale.

"They wrote it in the contract that I had to leave one of my primitive paintings on the wall," she said.

Margaret Heitzmann said she has been a member of RSVP for about 18 years, which also coincides with the time she began painting.

At next week's event, each artist will offer up to five works, guaranteeing a wide variety of art from which buyers may choose, including landscapes, primitives, seascapes, bayou scenes, New Orleans scenes, religious and other themes. Lagasse said she hopes to show and sell more paintings through the day of the show.

Scales — substation

when the Sheriff was called on the spot before citizens of Pearlinton, who complained not enough was being done to curb the growing drug problem.

Peterson said a Sheriff's substation would serve a dual purpose, since the weigh station is located in close proximity to Port Bienville, which now has more than 1,200 construction workers at the Wellman site.

A Sheriff's substation would be placed to quell any problems at the job site, and also would be within a short distance to respond to emergencies arising in Pearlinton, he said.

The MDOT will also be asked to leave the truck scales in place. The consensus was the equipment could be used by the Sheriff's Department or by Port Bienville in the future.

Cassagne will be one of 350 outstanding high school journalists attending the conference sponsored by Congressional Youth Leadership Council.

Drawing on the expertise of leaders in the fields of print, radio and television journalism, the Washington Journalism Conference will give Cassagne an insider's view of the industry.

In more than 25 seminars with 40 speakers, students will hear from and work side-by-side with journalists from CNN, C-SPAN, Fox Broadcasting Company, Reuters, UPI, USA Today and The Washington Post.

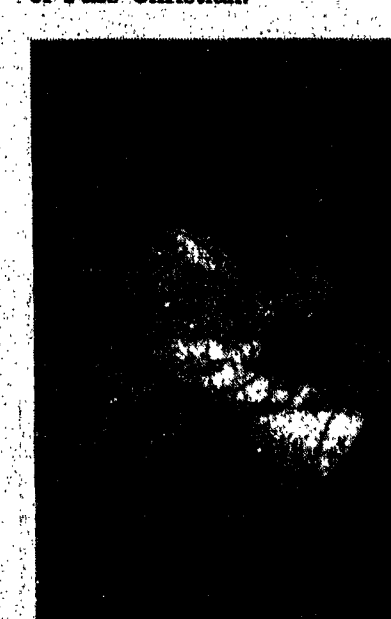

Cassagne will meet key figures from government and the private sector. During a visit to Capitol Hill, students will participate in a question-and-answer session with a member of Congress on the floor of the House of Representatives.

The young journalists may also interview the press secretary of their elected district representative about issues of concern to Pass Christian and the nation.

Students will participate in a number of activities at the National Press Club, including a panel discussion with top journalists. The young journalists will also conduct their own mock press conferences at various executive agencies.

For six days, young journalists from high schools all across the country become part of the Washington press corps covering stories, interviewing newsmakers and having a real hands-on experience in the news industry.

Lewis named Jerome Reso Scholarship recipient

Fredrick J. Lewis, a senior at St. Stanislaus, has been named the 1997-98 recipient of the Jerome J. Reso Scholarship, according to Brother Paul Montero, SC, provincial superior of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart. Lewis is the son of Yolanda Lewis of Bay St. Louis.

The scholarship is given annually by the New Orleans Province of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart in a spirit of gratitude for the professional support and the personal commitment of Jerome J. Reso Jr. to perpetuating the educational mission of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart.

Reso is a 1955 graduate of St. Aloysius (now Brother Martin) High School in New Orleans.

Each school which is staffed by Brothers of the Sacred Heart is invited each year to nominate a student who will be a senior during the next school session.

The criteria for selection from among the nominees are that the student qualifies for financial need according to the criteria of the nominating school; that the nominee has been making positive personal contributions to studies, community, church and school; and that the nominee shows promise of continuing his/her education and of leadership.

The Provincial Council of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart pays to the school of the recipient full tuition for the recipient's senior year.

During his years at St. Stanislaus, Lewis has participated in football, basketball, track and baseball. Each year since seventh grade he has been named a Pepsi Student of the Month and was nominated by the school for membership in Who's Who Among American High School Students.

He has maintained a better than 3.0 grade-point average. He is an active member of St. Rose de Lime Catholic Church Parish and is a member of the Junior Knight of Peter Claver.

Lewis plans to attend college and major in some branch of engineering.

Brother Ronald Talbot, principal of St. Stanislaus; Yolanda Lewis, Fredrick Lewis and Jerome J. Reso Jr.

Three Coast Episcopal essay winners named

Three Hancock County students will be honored for their winning essays on "Why I am Glad America is a Nation of Immigrants" during a ceremony at Coast Episcopal School.

The winning essays were selected from some 20 entries submitted by fifth grade students from Coast Episcopal School.

The Celebrate American Essay Contest was sponsored by the American Immigration Lawyers Association and the American Immigration Law Foundation to help spread a positive message about the benefits of immigration to America.

"We were overwhelmed by the profound insight, humor and optimism of the entries. These children can teach many Americans some very important lessons," said Malvern C. Burnett, local immigration attorney and coordinator of the contest.

The three students to be honored are Scott Hussey of Diamondhead, first place; Rollins Gordon of Pass Christian, second place; and Robert Watson of Pass Christian, third place, all fifth graders attending Coast Episcopal.

The winners were selected by a panel of judges, including Dr. Thomas R. Flores, recognized orthopaedic surgeon practicing in the Bay St. Louis area.

First, second and third place winners will receive U.S. Savings Bonds in the amounts of $100, $75 and $50, respectively. In addition, the first place entry will be entered into the National Essay Contest where the grand prize includes an all-expense-paid trip to the annual conference on the American Immigration Lawyers Association in Houston June 17-19.

State competition

Several Hancock County Vo-Tech Center students recently placed in the State Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) competition held recently in Jackson. They include, from left, Jeremy Henley, third place, automotive service technology; Josh Lee, first place, sheet metal; Richie Ladner, second place, machine shop; and Ryan Bozant, second place, cabinet making. Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Lee II of Kiln, and will represent the state of Mississippi in the national VICA competition to be held in Kansas City, Mo. June 22-26.

Grisham will address USM spring graduates

Acclaimed author John Grisham will address more than 1,700 University of Southern Mississippi graduates May 15 during 1998 spring commencement ceremonies.

Grisham — a Mississippian, attorney and former member of the state Legislature — will address 1,739 USM grads during the 6:30 p.m. graduation exercise at Green Coliseum.

Southern Miss President Horace Fleming will confer diplomas on 1,210 undergraduates and 529 graduate students — including Carletta Barnes of Hattiesburg, the first USM student to earn a degree with the aid of a scholarship established by Oseola McCarty.

McCarty, who turned 90 last month, also will be awarded the university's first honorary degree during the program.

USM's most famous benefactor — a former washer woman who donated $150,000 of her life's savings to establish a scholarship fund for deserving students — will receive the Doctor of Humane Letters.

Grisham, 43, has won international fame over the past decade as the author of a series of nine best-seller novels.

Raphael honored

Bethany Raphael, daughter of Michael and Tammy Raphael of Bay St. Louis, has been selected as a finalist in the 1998 Pre-Teen Mississippi Scholarship and Recognition Program to be held July 31-Aug. 2 at the Ramada Inn Coliseum in Jackson. The Pre-Teen Mississippi is an by-invitation-only scholarship and recognition event involving young ladies 7 to 12 years of age based on their school academic records, awards and honors won and/or their participation in outside activities. Additionally, young ladies are invited to have been recognized publicly for their outstanding personal achievements, volunteer services, school involvement, leadership abilities and creative talents.

Searches narrow for two USM deans

The University of Southern Mississippi's search for two new college deans has narrowed to seven finalists who were scheduled to begin a series of campus interviews.

National searches were launched last year to find new deans for the College of Business Administration and for the College of Education and Psychology following the resignations from those posts, respectively, of Dr. Tyrone Black and Dr. James Schnur.

USMGC offers ISO 14000 standards course

The University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Park campus will offer a summer course on the newly created standards for environmental management.

The new standards, called ISO 14000, were developed by the International Organization for Standardization in collaboration with representatives from a wide variety of industries. They are expected to revolutionize the way organizations do business, because they involve all aspects of the industrial process from design to marketing.

ISO 14000 standards are intended to reduce environmental management costs and increase production efficiency. They will enhance an organization's ability to attain and measure environmental performance.

USM's ISO 14000 advanced lead auditor training is designed to instruct students in the conduct of the new Environmental Management System audits.

Participants can get certification as an ISO 14000 Lead Auditor upon completion of the course.

During the course, students will conduct five audits, each featuring different phase of an actual business standard. Course training is provided by Applied Quality Systems Inc. and is accredited.

The course will be held May 18-22, and the registration fee is $1,595.

The "WORD" for the Week

Dennis J. Prutow, Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

Issues of character, sex, fidelity, and privacy are back in the news. At the same time, pollsters, pundits and political prophets recognize the decline of the family is seriously undercutting our society.

Kids need their moms and dads. They need the security of faithful families. Promiscuous conduct along with relaxed divorce laws make breakups too easy. When dad thinks he has had enough, he takes a hike and files for divorce. The judge asks, "Are you two incompatible?" Dad says, "You bet." Bang! The gavel falls; the divorce is granted.

Dads need to understand the value of their wives. "House and wealth are an inheritance from fathers, but a prudent wife is from the Lord" (Proverbs 19:14). Many husbands are interested in nothing but money, money, money. They have no spiritual sensitivity. They have no eye for God. As a result, many brothers and sisters fight over the family inheritance.

Jesus asks the pointed question, "What does it profit a man to gain the whole world, and forfeit his soul?" (Mark 8:36). So you get the money. In the meantime, you lose your wife. What good is the money? "An excellent wife is the crown of her husband" (Proverbs 12:4). "Her worth is far above jewels" (Proverbs 31:10). "He who finds a wife finds a good thing and obtains favor from the Lord" (Proverbs 18:22).

We Can Always Learn

I once worked for an automobile dealership and it seemed that I was always being sent to various classes and seminars. The owner of the dealership told me that he wanted me to learn as much as I could, and someday perhaps I'd realize how little I know. He didn't mean this in a derogatory way, he just wanted me to realize that there was so much to understand and learn in this world. In the Bible, the Lord appeared to Solomon in a dream, and asked him "what would you like me to give you?" Instead of asking for wealth or long life, Solomon asked for wisdom. The Lord was so pleased that He gave Solomon not only wisdom and understanding, but also wealth, honor, and long life. Just as important as being educated in our chosen occupation, we should also be knowledgeable about our faith. A wise person will walk in the ways of the Lord, and reading God's word, the Bible, will help us learn and gain wisdom.

For the Lord gives wisdom; from His mouth come knowledge and understanding.

Nationally acclaimed artists featured in new exhibit

"Motion Detection: The Visual Rhythms of Walter Anderson," opens at the Walter Anderson Museum of Art. Celebrating expression through movement, this innovative exhibition explores motion and rhythm through the works of two Mississippi artists of national acclaim, Walter Anderson and James Seawright.

elegant repetition of line or Seawright's sculptures that interact with their surroundings, this exhibition radiates motion and offers four exciting perspectives on how movement is expressed through different media.

Anderson's works include drawings, paintings, ceramics and sculpture depicting various forms of motion. Some works are structured and choreographed, as in his pieces reflective of dance; others are spontaneous and carefree, as in the play scenes of children; others still are more "organic" in nature, such as embers burning brightly in a camp fire.

The works of James Seawright investigate nature's fundamental forms and movements with animate qualities seen through the inanimate world of high technology.

His intricate mirrored works reflect the rhythms of their surroundings and his sophisticated kinetic sculptures interact with their viewers through mechanisms designed to sense light. These automated constructions mimic the fundamental geometric forms and the basic biological motion found in the natural environment.

Reinforcing the theme of "Motion Detection," the museum is presenting two special productions for its Artforms Performance Series choreographed by two other Mississippi artists. The internationally renowned Mimi Garrard Dance Theatre of New York and the acclaimed Leif Anderson & Company will delight audiences with energetic, engaging performances at the Ocean Springs Civic Center in May and July, respectively.

"Motion Detection: The Visual Rhythms of Walter Anderson," closes Aug. 3. Guided tours are available; contact the museum's Education Department at 872-3164 at least two weeks in advance to schedule a tour.
